On September 8th, 2018 - Women, girls, and allies are invited to join a diverse coalition of women's groups, climate justice organizations, and others - to organize and march together as a part of ‘RISE for Climate, Jobs and Justice’ - the 2018 People's Climate Movement March.

This march is taking place in the context of years and decades of strategic organizing by many climate, Indigenous, labour, racial justice and other social movement leaders; and is also being called in response to the Global Climate Action Summit taking place in San Francisco. The march also comes roughly two months before U.S. mid-term elections, making it an important moment for many to demonstrate commitment to voting as part of their dedication to stopping extraction, and defending the planet and all communities.

As ‘Women for Climate Justice’ Contingents in San Francisco and around the world, we will be sending a clear message that as women, many of whom stand on the frontlines of climate change globally, we are gravely concerned about the impacts of climate change, and the implications of administrations and government officials that promote advancement of fossil fuels, extractive economies, climate skepticism, environmental racism, bigotry and inequitable treatment of women, and frontline, Indigenous and marginalized communities.

We will raise our voices to demonstrate women's power to build just climate solutions - and take a stand for all future generations to live in a healthy, just, and thriving world.
This toolkit is intended as a resource for women and allies interested in organizing for action as ‘Women for Climate Justice’ in the San Francisco Bay Area, and independently in home regions across the U.S. and worldwide. The ‘Women for Climate Justice’ coalition is an open, unbranded, collective space - and all individuals and organizations/groups are welcome to use and adapt these messaging points and tools!

KEY ORGANIZING PRINCIPLES

All efforts in organizing for climate justice invoke a frontlines first principle where women most impacted by climate change/environmental degradation, including Indigenous women, women with disabilities, and women of color, lead in terms of voice and key messages, are equally represented in all aspects of decision-making and prioritized in terms of rally spaces and media spots.
